

Angus Lapsley

Director General Strategy and International UK
Ministry of Defence

Main Programme

Keynote Speech

Wednesday, 27th November 2019, 14:30 – 14:50 h

Angus Lapsley is currently the Director General Strategy & International in the UK Ministry of Defence. He is responsible for Euro-Atlantic security policy, including the Defence implications of the UK exiting the EU; multilateral and bilateral defence relations with key partners including the United States, NATO and European allies; leading the Department's strategic planning process; and leading the MOD's contribution to the Government's prosperity agenda, including exports and industrial policy. Previously, he has served in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office for the majority of his career, most recently as Director Defence and International Security.